SCHOOL PUPILS WILL AID WITH FRUIT HARVEST

Forty county school principals, school board members, and teachers Friday night expressed their willingness "to do anything possible" to help with the farm labor situation.

The discussion, held in the court house, between the schoolmen, representatives of the county Farm Labor committee and fruit growers, showed most of the high schools and many of the elementary schools are planning to close for two weeks in October to take care of the apple picking season.

Many problems are facing the school administrators, it was pointed out, with the main difficulty being correlation of the bus schedules for the various schools in the event that the high schools and seventh and eighth grades are closed for longer periods than the lower grades.

Ask Teacher Supervision
Most schoolmen said they planned to keep the children from first to sixth grade in school during the fall feeling that that would release more mothers and older folks to harvest the crop.

Supervision of the youngsters by school authorities was stressed by the schoolmen, who pointed out the experience at East Berlin last year in which Principal Elmer M. Gruver took charge of the high school students in the field. It was found there that the youngsters did more work and were more efficient while under the supervision of teachers than when they were allowed to work without supervision.

M. T. Hartman, county farm agent, also asked the school principals to provide teachers to supervise the youngsters while in the field. Few growers have experience in directing the school children, Hartman said.

May Declare Emergency
It was decided to allow each school district to close during the particular time necessary for its section. Many schools in the lower part of the county are planning to help out in the tomato picking and bean picking season which will last until early fall, while western county schools are planning on taking part in the apple harvest which will, according to present indications, take place in the Fairfield area earlier than in more northern parts of the county.

Most of the high schools were reported as planning to open September 7, which the growers and principals believe will be after the main tomato, peach and bean picking seasons, all of which will come about the end of this month. If the seasons are delayed, the schools can be closed by declaration of an emergency by the school boards, it was stated.

High schools in the western part of the county are planning to close for two weeks during October, with the particular period to be determined by the ripening of the apple crop. Other sections which are promised to close if necessary to help the fruit growers and farmers. Principals asked the Farm Labor committee to keep them informed of the need so they could act on the matter.

New State Laws
Taking part in the discussion were Dr. Anson Hamm, Fairfield; L. V. Stock, Biglerville; Elmer Gruver, East Berlin; M. T. Hartman, county farm agent; John Peters, county fruit grower; Robert Myers, county farm labor committee chairman; Herbert Miller, county farm labor assistant; Robert A. Bream, assistant county superintendent of schools, and a number of teachers, growers and directors.

Richard C. Lighter, county agricultural education supervisor, presided.

New state laws allowing schools to close up to 30 days to help with the harvest and count the days as days taught were explained by Superintendent Slaybaugh.

EMMITSBURG MAN FIGHTING IN SICILY AREA

Corp. Ralph Kelly, Emmitsburg, was recently mentioned in an Associated Press dispatch from Sicily by AP Correspondent Don Whitehead.

Whitehead met Kelly near Tronina, Sicily, just after Kelly had extricated himself from a difficult spot. The Emmitsburg youth had refused to leave his machine-gun post until all the riflemen were out and he had no support for himself when it came time to retreat.

Later, when Kelly re-entered the battle, one of a group standing near Whitehead is reported by the AP correspondent to have said:

"That's Kelly. You can tell every time he puts his finger on a trigger. Listen to him." Whitehead reported the "gun spat short, angry bursts."

Campaign Veteran
Young Kelly is a veteran of the Mediterranean campaign. He was with the first Allied troops which invaded the North African coast last November, and has been fighting steadily since with the exception of a two-week period spent in a hospital recovering from wounds received in initial engagements.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kelly, Emmitsburg, he was graduated from the Emmitsburg high school in 1935 and was employed in a Taneytown plant before entering the army in January 1942. He will be 25 this month.

Doesn't Complain
Kelly went overseas in July, last year, his sister, Miss Mamie Kelly, who formerly worked at Haines' restaurant, near here on the Emmitsburg road, reports. He trained in England prior to the African campaign. His family last heard from him on July 21 when he informed them he was in Sicily. He has two brothers, one a World War I veteran, and four sisters.

In all the letters he has written home since he has been overseas he never has complained of hardships, his sister declared.

"Even in the time he has been in the thick of the fighting and even when he was wounded his letters have always been cheerful and optimistic." The dispatch sent this week from Sicily by correspondent Whitehead mentioning Corporal Kelly set at rest fears of the family that Kelly may have been wounded.

DRIVE FOR TIN CANS PLANNED HERE MONDAY

A special scrap drive—"to collect every tin can that we possibly can obtain," will be conducted by the Gettysburg firemen Monday evening in order to fill the railroad car that arrived here this morning to carry the county's collection of tin cans to a detinning plant for salvage.

Firemen were urged to turn out after 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Schwartz warehouse to load the tons of tin cans already collected.

On Monday, starting from the engine house at 6:30 p. m., the firemen will make a thorough canvass of the town to pick up all the tin cans and other salvage available and will load the tin cans directly from the trucks to the railroad car. In the meantime, salvage committees from near-by communities are planning to bring the tin cans they have collected to Gettysburg in order to have the car loaded by late Monday.

Need 16 tons

The firemen are urged to turn out in large numbers for the Monday evening salvage collection in order that the trucks may be manned sufficiently to complete the collection as rapidly as possible. A number of trucks in addition to the fire trucks are being secured for the drive, Vernon B. Corie, fire company salvage chairman, said today. Additional help will be needed to load the trucks, he added.

At least 16 tons of tin cans will be needed to fill the car, Dr. J. Walter Coleman, Gettysburg salvage chairman, said today in urging townspeople to prepare all tin cans available for the drive Monday evening. All of the cans must be washed carefully, because any food particles remaining in the can contaminate the detinning chemicals, Dr. Coleman said. The cans are also to be flattened after the ends are cut off and placed inside the cans. No motor oil, paint, or beer cans with conical tops can be accepted, it was stated.

U.S., BRITISH CHIEFS CONFER

Quebec, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Quebec military conference entered its second and most significant stage today as the top men guiding the destiny of the United States' mighty forces began war councils with their British counterparts.

The sessions were preliminary to a forthcoming conference here sometime soon between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. Neither has yet arrived. Churchill left earlier in the week for an unannounced destination.

Meantime speculation was heard here that Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, might attend. One spokesman, questioned on the possibility, countered with "well, there are some odds he'll come."

The chief of the American Army, Navy and Air Forces arrived here last night and engaged in brief preliminary discussions with British chiefs of staff, but not until today did they get to work in earnest.

The Americans are General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the Army; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the Navy; General H. H. Arnold, commanding the Army Air Forces; Admiral William D. Leahy, personal chief of staff to President Roosevelt; and Lt. General Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the Army service forces.

Promise More Gas For East, Less For West; To End Pleasure Driving Ban

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Less gas for the midwest and southwest, a promise of more for the east and, in time, abolition of the pleasure-driving ban was decreed by government authorities today.

The sweeping dictum on motor fuel was issued last night by the Office of Price Administration and promptly seconded by Interior Secretary Ickes, the petroleum administrator for war.

It provided that:

1. Gas ration coupons in the midwest and southwest henceforth are worth three gallons instead of four starting at 12:01 a. m. Monday.
2. The ban on pleasure driving in the 12 northeastern states may be lifted by September 1 if current restrictions are obeyed.
3. More gas for the east is in prospect for possibly late in September.

The Atlantic coast states have been getting along on 1½ gallons per "A" coupon, and 2½ for "B" and "C" tickets.

OPA's announcement of gasoline ration cuts in the midwest and southwest coincided with a statement from Interior Secretary Ickes that available gasoline in those sections would be off 15 per cent from the June consumption.

Need More Coat Hangers

New air cadet candidates who have arrived recently for training with the 55th College Training detachment at Gettysburg college need coat hangers and a new appeal was issued today for more hangers to supplement the shower of the gadgets residents of this community supplied several months ago.

The hangers may be taken to Old Dorm, Huber hall or may be left at The Gettysburg Times office.

BUSY SESSION AT MART TODAY; STANDS LOADED

At the Farmers' market this morning, growers said that some late corn will be saved by the rain Friday evening but felt that much of the earlier corn was too far gone to be helped. Both field and sweet corn has been badly damaged by the dry weather during the last month.

Other crops have been equally badly injured, with tomatoes, "frying in the fields," farmers said.

Despite the long drought, truck crops at the market were in good supply and the demand was very brisk.

Tomatoes Plentiful

Lima beans were for sale at 25 cents a pint and 50 cents a quart during the early hours of the market but the small supply was soon purchased. Plums were on sale at one stand at 25 cents a quarter peck, 75 cents a peck and $1.25 a half bushel.

A large amount of Summer Rambo and Smokehouse apples were offered at 25 to 30 cents a half peck, 50 cents a peck and celery was available at 20 cents for large stalks. One stand had cantaloupes selling from eight cents to 25 cents apiece depending on size.

Onions were in good supply at 10 and 25 cents a box and tomatoes were very plentiful at from 13 to 15 cents a quart with the latter price more dominant. One dollar a half bushel was almost a standard price for tomatoes.

Peaches In Demand

Some crab apples were available at 10 cents a quart and carrots were five cents a bunch. Squashes were available in fair supply at five cents each.

South Haven and other peaches were popular at from $3.75 to $4 a bushel, with most sales at 10 and 20 cent a box.

Large cucumbers were available at five cents apiece; string beans were to be had at 10 cents a quart box.

A larger number of chickens than usual was available, with some farmers selling dressed spring chickens under a pound at 50 cents. Average chicken prices continued at 50 cents for those two years or older, 55 cents for young chickens and 58 for fryers.

Potatoes were plentiful at 20 cents a quart, 35 cents a peck and 65 cents a half bushel.

Registration Ends Tonight

Forty-eight voters registered at special registration periods held Friday evening at York Springs and Bonneauville.

At Bonneauville, 23 Democrats and seven Republicans were registered, while at York Springs 14 Republicans and four Democrats were enrolled.

The final special registration before the primaries will be held this evening from 7 until 10 o'clock at the court house. After 10 o'clock this evening no registration will be allowed until five days after the primaries, it was pointed out.

STATE RULES ON TEACHERS' PAY

Harrisburg, Aug. 14 (AP)—Substitute teachers and those paid less than $1,000 a year are ineligible for salary increases provided by the 1943 general assembly under an opinion given yesterday by the Department of Justice.

The Legislature authorized $24,000,000 in cost-of-living pay boosts for the next two years, with increases ranging from $200 to $600 according to salary.

The opinion held that "no reimbursement is made by the commonwealth to a school district employing a substitute except where a substitute is replacing a professional employee on Sabbatical leave" and pointed out no contract protection is given such replacements.

The department also said the Legislature "made no mention in the act which we are considering of any teacher who will receive a salary of less than $1,000 a year."

Drought Broken But Heat Lingers

Two thundershowers Friday evening snapped the long drought in Adams county but failed to break the high temperatures which have prevailed for over a week.

The showers covered a better part of the county and were described as "good" in most sections.

Friday marked the seventh successive day the mercury climbed over the 90-degree mark. All indications pointed to another high reading today with high humidity adding to the discomfort.

REDS DRIVE ON SMOLENSK; TO GAIN KHARKOV

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press War Editor

Surging Allied forces have pounded forward on all fronts in Sicily to squeeze dangerously upon the wholesale German "Dunkirk" attempt at Messina, and the thunderous Allied air offensive reached out on a new tack to strike at Austrian targets deep within Hitler's greater Reich.

A fleet of Liberators ranging perhaps 2,000 miles or more from Middle East bases hammered Wiener Neustadt south of Vienna yesterday, the same day that air blows shook Italy from tip to toe to stir new cries for peace.

Nazis In Full Flight
German troops also were falling back in Russia on a 500-mile front before Red Armies waging three great offensives, including a new drive upon the central front bastion of Smolensk.

Allied headquarters in North Africa declared the German withdrawal in Sicily was in full progress, with Allied armies rapidly prying loose Nazi rearwards by infantry, artillery and air assaults with sea support.

28 Miles From Messina
In the central sector, American troops captured Randazzo in a flank attack, and seized Floresta midway between Randazzo and Cape Orlando in the north. This double victory put them within 28 miles of Messina and their progress continued through mountainous country.

U. S. troops on the north coast plunged on to Piraino in a three-mile surge from Brolo, and British Eighth Army allies on the east coast captured Riposto 10 miles below Taormina. American troops in the center are 20 miles from Taormina. All of Mt. Etna thus was placed in Allied hands.

Reds on Kharkov's Edge
Liberators plastered factories and an assembly plant at Wiener Neustadt, and "all aircraft taking part have been accounted for," middle east communiqué reported. Hangars and factory buildings were hit.

The Russians were fighting in the suburbs of Kharkov, with the battle spreading 500 miles to the north where, Moscow disclosed, a third offensive has been launched east of Smolensk. This latter drive was underway north and south of Spas Demensk, and Soviet columns had pushed within 73 and 60 miles of Smolensk. Two thousand Nazis were reported killed in this area.

The other Russian push was advancing from Orel to Bryansk with fighting in progress at Karachev 28 miles from Bryansk.

No Planes Lost
New war action, possibly against Europe and Japan, was in the making in Quebec in conferences between American and British chiefs of staff. Their meeting was the forerunner to the sixth conference between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

NAZI STRATEGY CHANGED FROM AFRICAN POLICY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

We have in Sicily the seemingly paradoxical spectacle of the German rear guard battling to a bloody finish against the Anglo-American advance, whereas in the vasty important struggle for Tunisia—Hitler's last toe-hold in North Africa—the Nazis surrendered wholesale when cornered.

This striking difference in behavior is attracting the attention of observers, and indeed it's highly important that we know what is behind it. It is suggested by some writers that this reversal of form in the German ranks is due to recognition that the Reich is now in dire peril and must be defended to the death, whereas the Nazi troops in Tunisia didn't regard that zone as vital to the Fatherland.

Having seen the Boche in operation in two wars I don't believe that's the answer to our phenomenon in Sicily. Rather I think that the famous General Montgomery gave us the key when he remarked to me in North Africa last December:

Nazis Have Hope

"The German is a good soldier and will fight, though I believe it is true that once you get him down he cracks up."

As I see it the Germans quit in Tunisia, not because that country wasn't vital to their master but because they realized that continuation of the struggle was equivalent to suicide. They had no hope of beating the Allies and they had no hope of escaping from the trap into which they had been pushed.

The situation in Sicily, however, is quite different despite the fact that the Boche know they haven't a whisper of a hope of holding the island. While they fully recognize that they must "abandon ship," they undoubtedly believe (1) that they have a fair chance of pulling off a Dunkerque and escaping to the mainland (in fact some of them already have made the bloody passage of Messina strait), and (2) that once they are on the mainland they ultimately will be able to join the German troops which are holding the line of the Po river in northern Italy in force.

A Tough Fighter

In short, the German soldier doesn't look on the Italian adventure as suicidal, despite the fierceness of the struggle. That doesn't necessarily mean he thinks the Fatherland is headed for victory. He may or may not believe that. However, he probably thinks—and not without reason—that he has a chance of fighting his way back into Germany and coming through the war alive.

The same psychological reaction undoubtedly inspires the Nazis who are fighting so fiercely against the onrushing Reds in Russia. The Hitlerites know that they have a chance of getting back home.

The German soldier is a tough fighter. I even encountered an occasion in the last war where one whole contingent of the Kaiser's pet Prussian guards did march against machinegun positions in a suicide attack which was staged by the German command for purposes of giving the morale of the rest of the troops a needed fillip. On the whole, however, as Montgomery says, once you get the Boche down he cracks up.

So far as concerns the Italian situation, even if the Badoglio government should surrender the Allies are able to overrun the lower three-quarters of the peninsula rather easily, there still must be a terrific fight along the defenses of the Po, if the Allies choose to force the issue. And behind the German Army of the Po there is the great Brenner Pass for retreat into the Reich.

This characteristic of the German of folding up "once you get him down" is something to keep well in mind in these fast moving days.

Allott, specialists, first class will interview construction men interested in joining the "fighting boats" while WAVE petty officers, Elaine McKallor and Mary Elizabeth Bean, will explain the opportunities open in the Women's Reserve.

Joins Seabees On Friday 13th

Philadelphia, Aug. 14 (AP)—Francis Wilson, 37, is in the Seabees now—probably the least superstitious amongst 'em.

Inducted yesterday—Friday the 13th—Wilson was asked if he didn't know the date was supposed to be unlucky.

His answer: He rolled up his left sleeve and displayed a black cat and the number 13 tattooed on his forearm.

Yanks First in Randazzo

The Italian high command said nine raiders were shot down over Rome yesterday, and as regards Sicily reported that Axis forces "are hindering, in lively defensive fighting, the movements of the enemy."

Allied headquarters announced the German evacuation of Sicily was in full swing, resistance out earlier field reports. Axis resistance now is merely rear-guard actions, headquarters said, and these defenses are rapidly being overcome.

The American Ninth Division first stormed into Randazzo, followed by the British 78th Division. This was the first disclosure that the Ninth Division was in action on the island.

DR. G. E. MILLER, COUNTY NATIVE, HAS DUAL JOB

Dr. G. E. Miller, alumnus of Gettysburg college and son of former Associate Judge and Mrs. E. P. Miller, York street, is making a double contribution to the war effort, according to a feature article appearing in a recent issue of The Jeffersonian, weekly newspaper published at Towson, Maryland.

Besides serving as the technical assistant to the commanding general of the Technical Division of the Warfare Service at the Edgewood Arsenal, Doctor Miller is a partner in W. A. Taylor and company of Towson where scientific instruments are turned out in large quantities—chiefly for Uncle Sam.

County Native

Doctor Miller, who is a native of Abbottstown, was graduated from Gettysburg college with the class of 1914 and the degree of bachelor of science. Six years later he received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins university. He did graduate work in chemistry at that institution and the University of Pennsylvania. He has previously been employed by the E. I. duPont de Nemours company and after World War I engaged in chemical research with that company at Edgewood.

The Taylor company makes comparators and analyzers designed accurately to test the degree of acidity or alkalinity of almost any fluid or mixture, the feature article points out.

"This means exactly nothing to the layman," the article continues "until it is explained that the key to the mystery lies in the little symbol 'pH' which extends a regulatory finger into hundreds of scientific and industrial processes. It is unnecessary for anyone to know any more about the meaning of the term 'pH' than that it is the basis of a scale expressing acidity and alkalinity to a fraction of a degree."

Uncle Sam a User

"The army and navy use the water analyzers extensively in purifying water, determining chlorine content, presence of iron, silica and many other elements. These water analyzers have been used for years by municipalities, laboratories, swimming pools and industries.

"The slide comparator sets permit exact measurement of phosphate salts which must be added to industrial boilers to prevent corrosion and forming of scale. These sets are used in air conditioning not only to prevent corrosion in the system but to remove acids from the air leaving it in a slightly alkaline condition helpful in the protection of rare books, papers and art objects in museums and libraries.

"Beverage bottlers utilize the sets in removing tastes and odors in the water that would affect taste and carbonization of beverages."

Sets Have Many Uses

"Although the general principle of these tests has been known and used for many years, Dr. William Taylor; his partner, Doctor Miller, and F. R. McCrumb, chief chemist, thirteen years ago perfected the equipment combining the maximum of accuracy with ease and simplicity of operation and established the small laboratory in Baltimore. Three years ago they built their present laboratory.

"The finished Taylor product is a neat portable case filled with little bottles and black plastic racks of ampoules containing colored fluids and distilled water. The method of making tests is amazingly simple, requiring only the addition of a properly chosen reagent to a tube of the fluid to be tested, then a routine matching colors with the ampoules in the rack. Yet this simple test eventually insures proper chlorine content in your swimming pool, bread dough that rises to a delectable lightness, soapuds that foam and glue that sticks. One variation of the Taylor set is used by physicians to determine the content of sulphur drugs in the blood and one is used by jelly-makers to find out what is needed to make jelly jell."

Elevator Operator Is Trapped By Lift

Omaha, Aug. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Leah Smith, 18, an elevator operator, underwent three hours of agony last night when her leg became caught between the lift and the shaft of an elevator at an Omaha hotel, during which she pleaded with doctors not to amputate the leg.

She was extricated after firemen removed steel sheeting on the shaft wall and cut off her shoe. Physicians said today that barring complications her foot will not be crippled.

NEW WARFARE LOOMS IN AFL

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—A reported application from the Mechanics Educational Society of America for the American Federation of Labor's charter rights over machinists foreshadowed Friday possible new jurisdictional warfare in the great aircraft-automobile industry.

President William Green said the AFL executive council would hold a hearing Friday on the MESA application.

The International Association of Machinists quit the AFL a few months ago, vacating the charter rights in the machine field. The divorce has not become final, psychologically speaking. Harvey Brown, IAM president, has said his machinists were still "AFL-minded" but wanted an equitable settlement of their row with the carpenters.

There are sideline suggestions that the AFL's flirtation with the MESA is bait to lure the big machinists' union back into the fold. The machinists claim a half-million members. The MESA claims only 40,000 to 45,000 members.

The other principal union in aircraft and automobiles is the CIO United Auto Workers.

2 Children Die In Flash Floods

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP) Two children were drowned Friday when a flash flood swept away their home at Melcroft, tiny Fayette county mining community.

The victims were identified as Barbara Maragua, 4, and Carol, 1, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maragua.

The parents and another child were rescued by neighbors from the side of a slate dump to which they clung after the home was swept away. Three other Maragua children were found unharmed.

The flood, which followed a cloudburst, demolished five other houses in Champion Run, a tributary of the Youghogheny river, and caused heavy property damage and crop damage in the Indian Creek valley.

Escaped Soldiers Are Captured

Greenville, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP) — Five prisoners who escaped from the Shenango personnel replacement depot after overpowering two guards and holding them as hostages have been captured, the Public Relations Office at the camp said Friday.

The soldiers were apprehended by a posse of military and civilian police near New Wilmington Thursday day.

The prisoners escaped from the Army post Wednesday afternoon, forcing the guards to accompany them along the Mercer-Sharon highway to within four miles of Sharon, where the guards escaped.

Hartford, Conn., (AP)—A Bridgeport butcher "beefed" once too often before the State OPA investigator Oscar F. Schultz that nobody could butcher to OPA specifications without losing money and points.

So Schultz hung up his coat and hat, the OPA says, and demonstrated with the butcher's own tools that it could be done for a gross profit of 32 per cent and no loss of points.

It seems Schultz used to have a chain of meat stores throughout southern Connecticut.

BOSTON ROOKIE PROVING GOOD CLUTCH HITTER

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Elmer (Butch) Nieman, a rookie, outfielder for the Boston Braves, may never be known as one of the major leagues' outstanding performers, but right now he is providing the finest clutch hitting in baseball.

In the last week he personally has decided four important games for the Braves, yesterday getting a two-run homer in the tenth inning to beat Chicago 5-4 and force the Cubs back into seventh place.

Last Saturday Nieman hit his second home run of the season in the ninth inning to beat Brooklyn, on Sunday he smashed a ninth-inning double to down the Dodgers again and Thursday his triple in the twelfth inning whipped the Cubs.

Distance Hitter

This rates as a pretty good week's work for the former Kansas State football star who came up from the Eastern league last spring with a .207 batting average and more than justifies his presence in the cleanup slot in Boston's batting order. Although his batting average is .274, 18 of his 55 hits have been for extra bases.

The Braves-Cubs game yesterday was the only contest in the National league to escape inclement weather, but the American league had a full program highlighted by the Cleveland Indians winning their sixth straight and taking undisputed possession of second place.

The Tribe clustered its ten hits off Don Black for three-run rallies in the fourth and seventh innings to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-4.

Cleveland was unable to gain on the New York Yankees, however, because Spud Chandler pitched a 4-0 shutout over the St. Louis Browns.

In acquiring his 15th victory and fourth shutout Chandler allowed nine hits, two more than his teammates made, but he kept the blows scattered while New York's collection included a home run by Ken Sears and three timely doubles.

Gets 2,000th Hit

Luke Appling, veteran shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, bagged the 2,000th hit of his career with a single that drove in a first-inning run and Chicago went on to clip the Boston Red Sox 3-2 on a two-run homer by Tommy Turner in the second inning.

Appling joined eight other players still active in the major leagues who have topped the 2,000 hurdle. Sharing the honor are Paul Waner, who has passed 3,000, and Dick Bartell, Joe Cronin, Doc Cramer, Chuck Klein, Billy Herman, Mel Ott and Joe Medwick.

Rudy York, who had hit seven home runs in the last six games, was stopped by Milo Candini's six-hit pitching as the Washington Senators walloped the Detroit Tigers, 11-3, with eight of their runs coming in the first two innings. The Senators thus moved past the Tigers into third place.

Interstate Tilts Chased By Rains

Weathered out last night, the six teams of the Interstate league have doubleheaders scheduled today.

Hopeful of a twin victory that would raise them to within a game of a first-place tie, the Hagerstown Owls invade Lancaster.

In the other games fourth place York is entertained by third-place Wilmington and Allentown makes another attempt to break back into the win column at Trenton.

The Eastern league's deadline for disposing of players to rival teams expired at midnight last night, and no player released unconditionally after that time can be signed by another club in the circuit without permission of the league president.

The league's limit of 17 active players will be removed automatically August 25, after which clubs may carry a maximum of 35.

All of yesterday's scheduled games were postponed because of weather.

New Aluminum Plants Idle

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Seven brand new west coast aluminum plant units able to turn out 21,000-000 pounds of the vital metal monthly have been idle for lack of manpower since their completion months ago, it was learned Friday at the War Production board.

Enough workers to do the job have been hired but quit, explained a WPB official who said:

"All seven units, located in labor-tight areas and operated by the Aluminum Company of America, need only a total of 1,000 workers to do the task for which they were built by the government at a cost of millions of dollars."

He added idleness of these west coast "reduction" units is tying up power facilities set up for them by one of the nation's greatest dams.

No attempt to convert that power to other uses can be made while it is possible for the aluminum manpower needs to be met.

Peru is the largest producer of vanadium.

Mexico produces 40 per cent of the world's silver.

WOMEN'S GOLF REACHES FINALS

By DAVE HOFF

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 14 (AP)—The women's western amateur golf tournament, which so far has paid off to its most prodigious hitters, braced for its super payoff today as a couple of long drivers, Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., and Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia met over the 36-hole championship distance at the Evanston Golf club.

In two 18-hole sessions at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. these two keen young golfing misses prepared to match the driver power which carried each to the finals.

These were the girls who had eliminated the tourney's co-medalists, Kay Byrne of Rye, N. Y., and Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J., compilers of excellent two-under-par 74's in Monday's qualifying rounds for the title vacated by Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex.

Describes Scope Of Black Mart

Philadelphia, Aug. 14 (AP)—"Black market practices," says Peter J. Carroll, area supervisor of the Food Distribution Administration, "are so widespread that if government agencies should put offenders out of business it would bring about an economic revolution with the result that there would be little or no meat for this area."

Carroll estimated in a statement that more than half the 1,000 slaughters in the nine-county southeastern Pennsylvania area are engaged in "black market practices," which he defined as selling at above-ceiling prices, selling without coupons and slaughtering above quotas.

Robert J. M. Matteson, FDA Deputy State Director, said the permits of 220 butchers, 15 slaughterers and 10 farmers in the area already had been revoked.

Seek Accord In War Plant Strike

Greensburg, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—A mass meeting of workers, union officials and army and navy representatives will be held tomorrow morning in Youngwood high school in an effort to settle a strike which yesterday caused the walkout of 1,000 workers at the Robertshaw Thermos company at nearby Youngwood.

James McGrane of South Greensburg, president of Robertshaw Local 1163, United Steelworkers (CIO), and Andy Ferrari, field representative of the district office, Greensburg, declared the strike unauthorized.

Ferrari said, "It's a silly thing that caused the walkout or shutdown or whatever it is. The union does not feel it is responsible for the strike."

Ferrari said no wage or hour trouble was involved but that employees claimed discrimination because of disciplinary layoffs given workers charged with spending too long at refreshment stands during working hours.

SIGNS POINT TO ITALIAN MOVES TOWARD ALLIES

Bern, Switzerland, Aug. 14 (AP)—

Signs multiplied Friday that Italy is stepping away from Germany in an effort to approach the Allies and democracy—for the latter, said the newspaper La Stampa of Turin, is the country's urgent need today.

Dispatches indicated that the Italians looked anxiously toward Quebec and the forthcoming conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, hopeful that the conferences would supply the means to get them out of the war.

The widening rift between the Axis partners was becoming so apparent that the Milan correspondent of the Zurich Die Tat, in a dispatch passed by the Italian censor, said he could "no longer speak of good Italian-German relations."

Wishful Writing
The Italians' daily topic of conversation, the dispatch said, is "how can Badoglio free himself from the word of honor Mussolini gave Hitler?"

Wishfully, the Italian press expressed its expectations that the Quebec conference would modify the Casablanca unconditional surrender formula.

La Stampa of Turin, in a dispatch from Lisbon, went so far as to assert that a revision of the Casablanca terms was the most important business to come before the Quebec conference.

TRAINING NEW GUARD UNITS

Indianapolis, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—Nearly 1,500 members of the Pennsylvania State Guard's First Regiment marched into the military post here today for a week's field training, determined to better the performance made by the second and third regiments in the past two weeks.

The first, with headquarters in Philadelphia and members from a score of eastern Pennsylvania cities and rural communities, will be instructed in discipline, courtesy, customs of the service, scouting, patrolling, house-to-house fighting, hand grenade throwing, sabotage defense and riot control.

Brig. Gen. Milton G. Baker, commander of the State Guard, said the summer training "contemplates as its final objective battalion offense and defense" and added men would qualify on the rifle range with machine guns and automatic rifles.

The first regiment replaced the second in post barracks here as the latter finished its week of training and scattered for homes after a final review before Majors General William G. Price, Jr., of Chester, and Edward C. Channon, of Columbia, retired army officers who once headed the state's National Guard.

Dear Sir:
I wish to inform you by a much delayed letter that I have been transferred to a new camp. I graduated from Gulfport Field's Aircraft Mechanics' school and am now at the Curtiss-Wright factory school.

This school is a specialized course for the C-46 airplane. They are picking men from each class for crew chiefs of one of these large cargo ships. It would be quite an honor to have charge of such a ship but also a large responsibility. They are doing a very good job as far as the school goes and I am sure that the chosen men will keep them in the air.

It's a very nice camp here and the chow is swell. In fact I don't think there is any better any place. The people around Buffalo sure treat a soldier fine. There isn't anything that is too great for them to do for a G. I. We sure do appreciate all they do, too.

I am thanking you for the swell paper. It keeps a fellow well informed of the happenings in good old Adams county. Hoping to soon be able to be back there to stay.

Until then,
I remain,
CPL. MERL E. EISENHART,
Class 5-44, Bks. T-15,
Cayuga Road,
Camp Curtissair, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how much I appreciate receiving the Gettysburg Times.

When I first entered the Air Corps, I had little idea of the gigantic task the Americans must accomplish. Having been in the service for a few months, I now realize how great the task is and that it can be completed only by the co-operation of all. You, the staff of the Times, are doing your share of co-operating by sending us fellows the paper and at the expense of your firm.

For you citizens of Gettysburg, it is impossible to say how much we really do appreciate receiving the hometown paper. Letters keep one well versed in home life; the paper of the town as a whole. It keeps us fighting for the place we want to go back to.

Once again I want to say, "Thank you." May the immortal words which Abraham Lincoln uttered in our own home town remain as vividly in your minds as they do in ours. And may "our nation under God have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Thank you,
PVT. RALPH TRIMMER,

Armstrong Favored In Fight Tonight

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 14 (AP)—Henry Armstrong, former boxing champion in three weight divisions, was a big favorite for his 10-round fight tonight with Joey Silva, Mexico City welterweight.

It's Armstrong's last tuneup in his comeback campaign before meeting top-notch welterweight Ray Robinson in New York's Madison Square Garden August 27.

Silva is expected to weigh 142 pounds, Armstrong 140.

SEEK SOLDIERS, 16-YR.-OLDS FOR WORK IN MINES

Ebensburg, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—The state's age limit for working in coal mines should be lowered from 18 to 16 years, declared Richard Malze, acting state secretary of mines, making an unscheduled appearance at a safety council meeting last night.

"They are taking boys of 17 now into the Navy and I see no reason why boys of 18 should not be able to do their bit to help their country, too," he asserted in a talk to the local council of the Joseph A. Holmes Safety association.

All coal miners now in the armed services should be returned to their jobs, Malze added.

Coal production in the nation has been slowed down by government control, the secretary stated. "I believe," he said, "there will be a continued slowing down as long as the government control continues."

Largely because of recent work stoppages, Malze said, Secretary Ickes' request for production of 600,000,000 tons of soft and 65,000,000 tons of anthracite coal cannot be met this year.

DAVIS DESERTS ISOLATIONISM

Pittsburgh, Aug. 14 (AP)—Spurning America's traditional isolation, U. S. Senator James J. Davis (R-Pa.) told a "win-the-peace" rally here last night that he favored an international organization "to enforce peace."

Davis, who voted against the draft act, lend-lease and other preparedness measures, declared:

"We should immediately undertake to organize the United Nations as a force for total peace as we have undertaken to organize them as a force for total war. . . . We now must realize that we must have

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

TRUE GREATNESS

These are beliefs which I have cherished most:

The love of God, the fellowship
of man;

That worth is of the spirit rather than

The wealth and fame which lucky
mortals boast;

That those whose hearts are not
by gain engrossed,

But day by day perform what
tasks they can,

May also serve the Great Cre-
ator's plan,

Although they never rise above the host.

This I believe true greatness here
to be:

To square all conduct to the
spoken creed;

To be the first to do the gracious
deed,

The first to answer friend's or
stranger's plea;

The first some faint, despairing
cry to hear

And do what God would do if he were near.

MESSAGES

We are beset with messages, many of which we fail to note or endeavor to translate. The scientist is forever
at work receiving these messages.

The lover of Nature thrives upon them, for he sees in them a revelation of the Divine will.

The very crumb that you toss to the grateful bird does a service more profound than you can fully realize.

There is a message in the very gratitude of that bird. There is a message in every blade of grass, in every raindrop, and in every intricately formed flake of snow. The wind bears notes from all corners of the earth. This universe was created with a definite purpose. We look into the face of patterns no matter where we roam. There is a design to our lives that matches those that are to be found in every nook and corner of the earth.

God and his creations are forever
contemporaries to each of us who lives, and when we die we melt into
that fathomless stream of all-ness
that is forever changing—into forms
about which we can only speculate.

This we do know, however, that a happier state is reserved for all who love and glory in this matchless experience of earth and its privileges.

To live and to serve our brief little hour is inspiration in itself, surrounded as we are with every variety of hope and intricate message toward which our heart may tend.

The earth is drenched with reality.
That just—"get down to earth"—is no idle remark. We cannot fathom
the content of our being until we own our oneness with the earth and listen to whatever message it has to deliver.

It is written that God talked with Moses, and that Enoch "walked with God." But anyone imbued with love and a consciousness that he owes his being to every element in the earth can well hear the whisper of God in the movement of a leaf or
the turning of a spade of rich dirt.

The ground, and the hovering heavens, are our University, from which we never graduate but from which we may forever learn.

Every individual is a miracle—
married to every miracle in Nature
from which we get every message of importance in life.

Two U. S. Destroyers Protect American People in Havana: Havana, Aug. 14 (AP)—As two United

the Cuban military authorities to order their soldiers to fire on all persons violating public order.

The American warships in the

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

For motorists the problem of wartime prosperity and gas rationing
resolves itself into one of reconciling earnings with yearnings.

"Reading" the Plugs

Studying motor behavior by checking the conditions of spark plugs is a science in itself, but there are a few simple matters which any motorist can figure out for himself. First of all, plugs normally should show some signs of carbon deposit. If their porcelain insulator is tinged slightly rusty that also is a sign of normalcy. Other signs, however, warn of trouble. Plugs that are sooty are operating too cool; those with burned points are too hot. Various degrees of trouble are indicated by shades of discoloration. An important thing to note is a whitish condition of the insulator combined with spots or blisters near the tip. This plug is running too hot and will certainly give trouble soon, with knocking and preignition increasing steadily.

Horse vs. Horsepower

There would be no point in recording the fact that I have just sold the summer place where many an item of this column was written during dog days except for the additional fact that the man who bought it owns a horse and buggy.
Headlines might read, "Motor minded Russell Sells Summer Home to Man With Horse." It would be the strange truth—that unpredictable
something brought to pass by reason of gas rationing and the clamping down on recreational traveling.
Dobbin will now sleep on hay tenderly laid on the garage floor, and upon occasions we can see him being led to the edge of the lake.
Whether he will be made to drink is, of course, another matter. At this writing, sitting here in the heat of the city, it looks like a horse's life isn't so bad at that.

Meeting Core Plugs

"I have been spending some time mulling over various things on the engine of my car," writes H. V. R.,
"but I'm puzzled by several small
disks in the side of the engine block.
A little water is coming from one of them."

These are expansion plugs, their function being to give way should there be excessive steam pressure
in the block due to overheating.
These plugs frequently leak, especially after a pressure flushing of the engine block. Except on V-type engines they are comparatively simple to replace. You punch them out and force the new ones
into place.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Much of the trouble I meet in my daily job of playing motor doc
to the neighborhood's cars is due to owners' failing to keep adjustments limber. I can best illustrate what I mean by going back to the older style water pump."

"If a pump packing nut isn't tightened a little now and again it will likely cause a leak if the job is done once in a blue moon. We see this also with radiator hose connections. Most motorists wait until they have put in anti-freeze and then go to it hammer and tongs tightening the clips. The right way is to tighten connections a very little several times a year."

"All over the car it is much the same thing. Many parts are difficult to remove just because they haven't been removed since they came off the assembly line. That's why so many parts break when we go to disturb them, and why adjusting even the simplest things on many cars is about as difficult as a major operation."

Pokey Driving Wasteful

I couldn't help noting that a very experienced taxi driver gave me a lively ride the other day. He was rolling around 30 most of the way, a speed that contrasts with the pokey
driving of too many conscientious car owners these days. It is a safe rule that any speed below 20 miles per hour is wasteful, except when traffic or weather conditions demand it. Engineers are worried over the present over-emphasis on slow motion, pointing out that up to 20's or even 30's in some cases the engine of a car is just about overcoming the drag of its own working parts. Once it gets rolling faster less power, and thus less gas, is required to keep it in motion.

Watch Your Reasoning

Sometimes we suspect that it is just as well that some motorists
don't know too much about their cars. So it was with H. N. L. who heard that if the front wheels can be made to wobble while they are shaken, their bearings are too loose.
He jacked up one wheel, grabbed the tire, shook it violently and got plenty of evidence of looseness.
Then he tightened up the bearing
so much that it cramped, burned
out and presented him with an accident. The looseness he noted was in the king pin bushings.

Check on Mixture

Idling mixture is so important in these days of restricted driving
there is some tendency to go to extremes in leaning it out. But there's no fear of this so long as the engine idles properly. A good rule to follow is to lean out until

the engine starts to falter and then enrich until motor speed picks up again and the engine runs smoothly.
It is important, of course, that idling speed be set fast enough to prevent stalling. Remember that because of wear on the throttle stop screw there is a tendency for engines to idle slower as they are used.

Post-War Thought

No one can foretell, of course, just how soon after car production is resumed we can expect innovations
by way of engineering and styling
but it is safe to predict that we are going to have better made cars.
The automobile industry has learned a lot about precision from the aviation industry. Motor men would like you to believe it is the other way
round, but from plane motor makers
the Detroit folk have culled a lot of thought as to the necessity for closer tolerances and utter precision.

Detroit was on its way to mirror
finish for motor parts when the war began, but it was only just the beginning. The consensus is that regardless of what's coming along in radical changes we're certain to have far better assembling.

Facts About Polishing

Most polishes are more effective
when new. Along toward the bottom of the bottle they do lose their value.

Use combination polishes and waxes more liberally, as the more wax you get on the surface the better.

Watch That Ammeter

Next time you can think of it switch on the dash light and make a mental note of the position of the ammeter pointer. It should be just slightly toward the discharge side.
This little detail will come in handy
each night when you switch off the engine and headlights, for you will want to note whether the ammeter is registering zero. You need the dash light to see the ammeter, and unless you know just how far the pointer should be over toward discharge to represent the current consumed by the dash light you won't be sure the discharge doesn't warn

of a short somewhere in the circuits.

It's a Motor Question
Q. I have found it necessary to keep either the throttle or choke pulled out a little to prevent the engine from stalling, during the warming up period. Which of these controls would use gas at a faster rate? A. C. N.
A. The choke control. Just let the engine run fast enough to prevent stalling.

THE LONG NIGHT

By Eleanor Atterburg

AP-F

YESTERDAY: Lieut. Bette Stuart, Army nurse, disobeys orders and goes up on deck of the transport she is on during an attack by a Jap submarine. She is reprimanded by hand-some Scott MacQuaid, Air Force captain.

Chapter 2

Bette was grateful for the Stygian darkness as she slipped back into the crowded stateroom.

"That you Bette?" Her sister's lovely voice sharpened now, came out of the pitch darkness of the room.

"Yes. Anything the matter?" "Where have you been?" "Oh—up on deck." Bette confessed, kept her tone careless.

"Why, Bette!" Sue Stuart's amazement broke into a little chuckle. "You of all people to be breaking rules! Did you get caught?"

"Yes, I did." Stumbling, she found her way to her own bunk.

"Dr. Farrell?" "No. Captain Scott MacQuaid—who probably won't hesitate to report me to the proper authorities!" she said and tried to muster a little laugh lest Sue suspect her true feelings.

"Scott MacQuaid!" Sue gasped. "Oh, darling, that was rotten luck. What did he say?"

"Nothing—much."

"I'd have given anything to be in your place," Sue said then. "I'm dying to meet him."

"You will, then," Bette answered. "But don't let him know you're any relation to me. He'll be prejudiced."

"No danger!" Sue laughed her lovely silvery laugh.

And that was only too true. Sue, five years younger and three inches taller than her sister, didn't look anything at all like her. Slim, sable-haired, cool grey eyes in whose depths more than one man had already lost his heart, Sue had always been the beauty of the family.

Bette had red hair, freckles and a temper exactly to match. Plenty of boys had teased her just to see the green eyes unseal lightning, but none had lost his heart.

"Incidentally, was there anything to all that noise up on deck?" One of the other girls interrupted lachrymatically from another corner of darkness. "Or were they just practicing with sea-gulls as targets?"

"Not sea gulls, sweet. A real sub surprised on the surface."

"Really?" A chorus of excited whispers. "Did we get it?"

"Probably."

"Oh, you lucky girl. Did you see it go down?"

"Yes. It crash-dived but not soon enough."

"Oh, Bette, I'd have given anything to be in your place," Sue said again.

"And I," Bette replied drily, "would give anything if you had."

She dreaded her hours on duty the next morning. But Dr. Farrell greeted her with a casual "Good morning, Miss Stuart" and nothing interrupted her routine in the ward-room. Captain MacQuaid had, apparently, held his tongue. Why, she could only wonder. Maybe he didn't consider it his duty. Maybe in the excitement, he had forgotten. Maybe—

But he hadn't forgotten. She saw that several hours later when he came into the wardroom. Most of the beds were empty, of course. Except for a few cases of flu and some bad colds, there hadn't been any patients.

Is Lieutenant Pete Martens here?" he asked, looking past her toward the end bed where his buddy was convalescing from a stiff bout with flu. "May I see him?"

"Certainly." Bette murmured, trying to withdraw before Scott really saw her.

Evidently her voice identified her, however. Scott looked down quickly. "Oh, you're the girl who was on deck last night during the show, aren't you?"

Bette felt the flush mount into her cheeks. "Yes, I was."

He almost smiled—almost. "Do you make a practice of poking around where the chances are best for getting in the way of a bullet?"

"No."

"Just when it's really dangerous, huh?"

"After all, it's my own risk," she said more tartly than she'd intended. "Not exactly. Uncle Sam sent you here to help save lives—not throw your own away. A good soldier obeys orders."

Bette's temper unfurled danger signals. Her green eyes flashed, her chin slanted. But she hesitated, searching for the right words with which to hit back in defense of her pride! He'd touched it in its tenderest spot—her devotion to duty.

He grinned, obviously enjoying her distress. "Of course, it's none of my business. And you'll undoubtedly go on doing as you please. Well, don't say I didn't warn you, Miss Stuart."

Bette fled back to her desk, cheeks blazing, emotions churning like a rip-tide. He was so absolutely right, of course. A good nurse, like a good soldier, obeys instructions implicitly. She'd never forgive herself—never. And, with something between joy and despair—he'd remembered her name, too!

Woman Pilot Likes Her Work

Reading, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—The blonde, blue-eyed mother of seven who commands the Reading station in the Civil Air Patrol's courier services hopes to keep on flying "until I'm so old I can't crawl out of a wheel chair."

"My sole regret," said Mrs. Frances Noide, believed to be the nation's first woman to command a CAP station, "is that I didn't begin flying 20 years ago so I could have 4,000 hours."

Wife of a prominent industrialist in this eastern Pennsylvania city, 41-year-old Mrs. Noide has logged since she learned to fly two years ago. She holds a commercial pilot's license.

Q. I understand that they are using special rubber gaskets on some of the airplane engines. Can such gaskets be had for cars? G. N. Jr.

A. These special gaskets are copper mesh covers with synthetic rubber and are used for the union between crankcase and oil pan. Not available for passenger cars as yet. They would not be useful as cylinder head gaskets.

Q. I would like to give the front end of my car more camber, but the adjustments are all taken up to the limit. Can the spindle arms be bent in a press? Should they be heated? G

Will Use Ration
Tokens By Jan. 1
Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—If you've figured out now how to tell the new pennies from dimes, you're ready for the next course in wartime coinage—ration tokens.
The Office of Price Administration
said Friday it was fairly certain that ration coins would go into use
on or about Jan. 1 to supplement,
but not replace, ration stamps.
Good only for food rationing, the tokens are to be colored red and blue to match the stamps in war ration books. They will be handed out by the grocer as change for ration stamps. Thus each stamp
could be given a higher point value
and ration books would last longer.
There has been discussion of having tokens come in two sizes, a one-
point coin about the size of a nickel and a 5-point token as big as a quarter. But this isn't settled yet;
possibly they'll all be of the 1-point
denomination.

FBI Investigates
Two Mill Blasts
Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—
The Federal Bureau of Investigation
today is probing explosions which destroyed two grinding mills at the Fairchance powder plant of the E.
I. DuPont de Nemours Co. within a period of 24 hours.
The second blast, last evening,
was about 1,000 feet from the first.
Both mills were operating mechanically. No one was killed or injured.
Loss in each case was less than $5,000.
The explosions rocked the neighborhood, breaking windows and doing other minor damage.
The great Deluge mentioned in the Bible is believed to have occurred around 4,000 B. C.

LEGION DECIDES
ON NEW HEAD IN
TODAY'S VOTING
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)— Election of a state commander and action on a resolution urging the state's participation in a federal program of aid to servicemen's wives
who are expectant mothers came before concluding sessions of the American Legion Pennsylvania Department's 25th annual convention
today.
The contest for the department's highest office apparently had narrowed to two candidates—Frank X.
Murray of Scranton and James P.
Murray of Forest City, who were far ahead in the balloting last night.
The maternity care resolution, approved previously by the resolutions committee, was sent back to the committee after Dr. R. Y. Grone, a delegate from Danville, said there were "medical objections" to the program.
Other Officers Named
Dr. Grone, who said later that he thought "the state medical society
should pass on the question before
the Legion puts its nose into it,"
was to testify before the resolutions committee during reconsideration of the measure today.
The convention elected a number of officers last night, including Charles McCann, Reading, eastern vice commander; Louis H. Harris,
Lewisburg, central vice commander;
Robert Malcomb, Curtisville, western
vice commander; and the Rev.
Michael Morris, pastor of St. John's Greek Rite Orthodox church, Lansford, chaplain.
The department Auxiliary elected
Mrs. Mary W. Piper of Altoona,
president; Mrs. Charles W. Dressler, Swissvale, secretary-treasurer; Mrs.
Matthew C. Watson, Indiana, historian; Mrs. Mabel D. Stark, West Pittston, chaplain; Mrs. James Desmond, Perry Point, eastern first vice president; Mrs. Ellis Houseknecht, Hughesville, central first vice president; and Mrs. George Jay, Canonsburg, western first vice president.

NEW FOOD PLAN
DIVIDES FOES
Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—The

have split opposition to its food subsidy rollback program with its billion dollar 1944 agricultural price
support plan.
While Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) declared the new idea "looks like subsidy by subterfuge," Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), another leader in the recent farm bloc fight against subsidies, predicted Congress would welcome any workable plan which would guarantee agricultural prices
to encourage production.
Food Administrator Marvin Jones
reportedly is preparing to request
an increase of upwards of a billion dollars in funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to finance price
guarantees to farmers on selected crops.
The money would be used to support farm prices at levels designed to encourage maximum production.
Where support prices are out of line
with price ceilings, it would be necessary for the CCC to buy the affected crop or commodity and re-
sell to distributors and processors
at prices in line with the ceilings.
Any losses incurred would be born by the billion dollar fund
now under consideration.

Something new in filmicals is scheduled to open Monday at the Majestic theatre, when "Stormy Weather" arrives. Headlining such famous names in the show world
as Lena Horne, Bill Robinson and Cab Calloway, the film is a cal-
cade of rhythm.
Old songs... new songs... blues
songs... solid songs... "Stormy Weather" has all kinds, combined with some of the most sensational dancing and production numbers
ever filmed.
The entertainment in "Stormy Weather" goes right down the line—
in the cast of the film are Katherine Dunham and her troupe, Fats Waller, whose magic fingers make the keyboards jump with jive, and those amazing Nicholas brothers,
whose sensational dancing has stopped many a show.

Finns See Hope
For End Of War
Stockholm, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Finns are beginning to see a ray of hope for peace for Finland.
The strict Finnish censorship,
which has been seeking to soft pedal
any peace talk, permitted the Helsinki newspaper Sosial-Demokrattit
to say that while "one dare not hope for peace in the near future we seem to hear an echo of coming peace."
Finland is "awaiting great events,"
the paper added.
